INTERESTING INSURANCE

In the Court of Appeal some months ago, before the Master of the Rolls and Lords Justices Romer and Mathew, the following interesting insurance case was decided :-Stuart v. Freeman .- This was an appeal by the Plaintiff asking for judgment or a new trial in an action which ans heard refore Mr Justice Ridley and a Special Jury in April last, when judgment was given for the Defendant, who was the Manager of the General Life Assurance

Mr Eldon Bankes, K.C., and Mr Arthur Powell, K.C., appeared for the plaintiff; Mr Duke, K.C., and Mr Ellis Hill for the

Mr Stunet, by whom the action was brought, was the assignce of a policy of insurance effected upon the life of the Hon. Francis Charles Lawley for £2500, granted by the General Life Assurance Company in Novembur, 1899. By the terms of the terly, and in the event of any premium being in arrear more than 30 days the policy was to become void. On Septemhor 17, 1991, the quarter's premium due on August 18 had been in mrent 39 days. On September 18 the Phintiff paid, the Defendant gave a receipt the premium then overdue. At the time of the payment the Hon. F. C. Lawley had died-namely, at two o'clock on September 18, though the fact of his death was unknown to both the Plaintiff and the Defendant. The Defendant refused to pay substantially on the ground that the acceptance and receipt of the premium for the insurance of the life of a merson who was then dead could not possibly extend the policy which, by reason of the arrear of payment, had temporarily lopsed. At the trial the Paintiff pleaded that in fact the policy had not lapsed or become void. It was a policy for a year, the premium for each such period being payable in four equal instalments for convenience only, and, therefore, the acceptance of the in-talment of premium, though averdue when paid, by an agent of the Company, precluded the Defendant from pleading any such defence, Evidence was also given that on a former occasion, when the premium was ; mid a day late a clerk to the Company had informed the Plaintiff, after he had inquired from the manager if he might take the premium, that the premiums would be accepted if paid a day or so after the 22 days of grace had expired. The learned Judge only left to the Jery the question whether the conversation alleged by the Plaintiff to have taken place between his clerk and the clerk to the Insurance Company had; in fact, taken place, and they answered that in favour of the Plaintiff. The learned Judge, however, entered judge ment for the Defendant, holding, as a matter of law, that there was no liability on the Company to pay upon the policy, which, by reason of the condition as to payment of the premiums within 30 days of their hecoming due, had become void. From that judgment the Plaintiff appealed, and there was a cross appeal by the Defendant on the

The Master of the Rolls said the ground finding of the July.

of the appeal was that certain material questions had not been left to the Jury, and it was necessary for them, therefore, to see if there was evidence that would have supported a verdict for the Plaintiff had these questions been left to the Jury to return an answer on. It seemed to him that there was ample evidence to go to the Jury on the question of the authority of the clerk to accept the premium on the 31st day, as there had clearly been an arrangement between the parties that the days of grace should be extended one day. Therefore it must be taken as if the premium had been a payment made within the 30 days of grace, and that the Jury nice question of law, arose, whother payment within the 3 / days of grace, although made, in fact, after the death of the assured, was in law a good payment when the death of the assured was unknown to either party. In considering that point it was necessary to consider whether the payment was one of a series on a policy current, or was a payment to renew or revive a policy that had lapsed. Here the policy on the assumed finding of the Jury was current, and, moreover, the payment was a quarterly payment of a policy effected for a year, which period had not expired. These being the admitted facts, it was not necessary to consider if the same considerations would apply in the event of the premium not being the fourth premium on a policy that was current. The conclusion the Court had come 2193 to was that this payment was a valid payment on a policy that had not lapsed, and, therefore the Plaintiff was entitled to recover the sum named in the policy.

The Lords Justices concurred, and the appeal was allowed, with costs, judgment being entered for the Plaintiff for £25%, and by agreement the interest due was taken as £100.

THIS BAD OLD WORLD.

In spite of what cynics say. There's many a hand held out to help Another on his way. And its idol is success; Yet it often steps aside for fear

On the fallen it will press. There's many a here gives up his life In humble duty done, With no hope of glory to shrine his name

Past the setting of the sun. Dearly the world leves dollars, and yet, In spite of its green and greed, There's many a dollar freely spent On the widow and orphan's need.

Bad as it is, with its vice and sin, This old worn world of ours, It hends with awe before pure things, And love and faith are powers.

It may fellow the winner with homage and

The world's intentions may be kind, But don't you sit and wait, my boy, For worth that waits is hard to find, So don't you sit and wait, my boy; The world may turn, some day, inclined To cheer the worth that lags behind, That through long years has hoped and

But don't you sit and wait, my boy. -S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Her td.

JUDGE SLOWLY.

It is not always as easy matter to judge correctly of the quality of things, Less than one in a thousand of us is capable of accurately estimating the worth of a picture; not more than one in a hundred the quality of a horse. In general, judgments rapidly made are of small value 'Did you ever notice,' recently inquired a visitor to an English University town of his companion, as they sat together on a verandali, that queer-looking old fellow with the idiotic face turned-up coat collar, and boots seven sizes too large, who passes hore every morning at alayen?' 'Many a time,' replied the other, · He is Professor of Comparative Grammar to the University of ----, and speaks fourteen modern languages, to sav nothing of his mastery of Greek, Latin, and Hebrew. The incident will serve to show the futility of superficial judgenged are none the less depletably wrong, more especially in matters which require a practical tost. Who can say positively whether a certain medicine has the power to cure some particular molady or not without giving it a trial?

When the friend of Mr Michael Fitzputrick, of 66, Forbes Street, Woolloomooler, Sydney, N.S.W., advised him to take Mother Seige I's Curative Symp for the cure of indigestion, he backed his advice with some excellent reasonsexcellent been uso his judgment of that mundy was based upon actual experience of its merit. Says Mr Fitzpatrick in a letter written on the 20th June, 1902: 'For many years I suffered terribly from indigestion and biliousness, and spent journals on declars' medicines and so-called cures; but without avail. In those days I had we appetite, and the little food I ste furned sour on my stomach, causing severe attacks of heartburn. I was also troubled with pains in the chest, violent headaches, and habitual constipation. In fact, at one time or other I suffered from most of the symptoms which characterise a sluggish liver and impaired My worst affliction, however, was a total inability to obtain sufficient sleep. I would go to hed feeling worn-out and sleepe, but as soon as my head touched the pillow my brain would become unnaturally active, and I would think of every kind of subject, and roll and toes about between the sheets, listening to the Fish Market Clock as it chimed hour efter hour, until all my porres were is a quiver. Then I would rise and walk the floor, backwards and forwards, the greater portion of the wight. For years I had been in this wrotched state when one day a friend fortunately called to see me. I was trying the hot water cure at the time, and was just in the act of drinking a cupful of steaming liquid. He asked me what I was taking it for. I described my troubles to him. and in reply to a further question informed him that I had not, so far, gained any relief from the hot-water treatment. He navised me to abundon it and try Mother Seigel's Cumtive ! Syrup instead. He gave me such excellent ! reasons for doing so that I accepted his adviceadvice which, I am thankful fto say, has had the very best results. After taking only one small bottle I felt very much better. As I continued to take the Syrap, so did I continue to improve in health, and in less than two months my cure was accomplished. That was three years ugo, and I have remained in good health ever since, which proves conclusively that it is not mere passing relief that Mother Seigel's Curatico Syrop affords to sufferers from indigastion, but permanent cure. Now I am careful mayer to be without a bottle of the Syrup on hand, as I take a dose occasionally to counteract the ill effects of my sedeutary ecupation-for I am a bootmaker by trade-and for this purpose I find it acts like a charm.

But it would seem that in Hongkong nothing less excling than a new dock scheme or the malaria mosquite was abl to bring together a large audience. From the report it would be seen the committee had offered a prize of £50 to the Commander-in-Chief for the oncouragement of gunnery in the ships on this station. That prize was effered absolutely unconditionally and without any restrictions whatever, and it had been a source of some regret to the committee that the authorities had not seen their way to accept the prize. After a delay of some months is answering their letter, which he presunied was due to the fact that the Admiral desired to communicate with the home authorities. they were informed that the offer was declined with thanks. It seemed regrettable that the authorities could not have seen their way to accept the offer, because there was no doubt that in the case of a naval struggle accurate marksmanship would count for a very great deal, In Great Britain recently a great deal of embusia an had been witnessed on he half of so-called rifle clubs, and the nation had undoubtedly realised that on land was of the atmost importance that the men should not morely be provided with guns but should be able to use them with precision and good effect. (Hear, hear, Well, if that rule held good on land how much more was it necessary that every oncouragement possible should be given to gunnery practice and aiming on board ship, where the difference between a hit and a miss might possibly have a very great bearing upon the decision of a big action The committee had also during the past year, as they had done for many years past, been pogging away upon the subject of piracy in the West River. That was a very important question. It not merel had a bearing upon the commerce of this port; it also had to be looked at from political and therefore a mival point view. Disturbances of the maighbour ing provinces ought so far as possible to be kept within due limits. No doubt there was some risk that it disturbances of this kind were allowed to go unchecked certain Powers might be tempted-we ourselves might be tempted—to interfere in the in ternal affairs of China, and it was obviously desirable that before things got to that stage vigorous steps should be taken to keep those piracies within due limit. was glad to see that the Government of Hongkong had recently been interesting theroselves in this matter, and they must hope that effective action would be taken in future and that those piracies, which had occurred so near our own waters in the past, would not meur. With reference to Weihaiwei, he thought since they last me various papers had been hid on the table of the disuse of Commons by Treasury exercised a very restraining effect Lord Cranborne, and it was quite obvious that all idea of making Weihaiwei into an armed base had been aban-He did not know that that was altogether an undesirable decision. if it meant that the authorities were going to do their very utmost to place Hongkong in an absolutely safe position (hear, hear) -as regards forts and putting powerful modern brooch loading guns into these forts (applause). thought it must be recognised as a fundamental-principle of naval strategy that it was the business of a fleet in war to keep at sen and pur ue or watch the enemy's fleets; and it appeared to him absolutely necessary that Hongkong should be pu into such a position as to be capable of defending itself for some weeks at al events during the absence of the fleet (applause). He wished to see the forts at Devil's Peak proceeded with shortly, but so far as he had been able to see for himself lately, it would seem' that unitiers there had come a standstill: He hoped they would very shortly have the satisfaction of seeing guns mounted there, as there was no doubt it was a very important position for the defence of the Colony. They would very soon have amongst them Mr H. F. Wyntt who was coming out as an envoy from the Navy League in London. Mr Wyatt was doing this work purely out of patriotism receiving no remuneration whatever for his efforts, and they had to thank Messrs Gibb, Livingston & Co., agents for the Eastern and Australian line, and Messrs, Butterfield and Swire, agents for the Chira Navigation Co., for having promised to give a free passage to Mr Wyatt from Japan to Australia. (Applance.) There was one point in connection with M Wyatt's visit to which he wished draw attention, and that was the fac that at the Board of Trade meeting he addressed at Montreal one and all the members present unanimously agreed to join the Navy League. Since then Mr Wyatt had been the means of establishing three new branches of the League Canada. (Applause.) His enruest hope was that they would be able to secure the adhesion here of more mumbers and asociates in that Branch of the Navy League. At the present moment there wore some 207 numbers and 38 associates He did not think that was altogether satisfactory having regard to the fact that there was an adult British male population in the Colony of over 1,200 people. They ought, seeing the importance of strengthening the hands of the Government, to do all in their power to secure more members and associates out here. In that connection he might mention that the head office of the Navy League had more than once during the past year written out arging them to get new recruits for the Langue, and, as a quarter of the subscriprions was sent home, the League desired more funds for carrying out its purposes and objects. Therefore it was important that they should secure the adhesion of more members and associates. He knew i was said by some, . What is the use of the Navy League! Are there not people who are paid to look after these things? Why should we trouble ourselves about these matters? Well, he thought that by using a simple local illustration he would be able to show that that was a fallacy. He thought he would be able to show that simple because people were paid to look after things, it did not in the least follow that the public would get that. Perhaps he need nardly say that he referred at the present moment to the waterquestion. (Applause), We had had in this Colony for years and years past a being known as the Water Authority-(laughter;-whose business it was to provide us with an efficient and Mr H. E. Pollock, K.C., presided at the | sufficient supply of water. Those people who took up the position that because a thing was paid for to be looked after thereargue that because the Water Authority, was paid to get the Colony a sufficient supply of water therefore we had plenty of water. The absurdity of adopting such a line of argument was obvious, (Applause). This water question also furnished a parallel to the action nembers was not large.

The Chairman in moving the adoption of considered they had not got a sufficient water supply agitated and wrote to the blessing. Press and the Water Authority demanding that they should receive an adequate surply of water. The Navy League was in exactly the same position. The League was convinced--and they were supported upon that point by such authorities as Lord Charles Beresford, Admiral Rawson, that the supply of battleships and cruisers was insufficient, and was endeavouring. through the Press and by questions in the should obtain a sufficient naval strength to enable us to maintain that peace throughout the world so very important The Navy League was by no means a jingo body. Their whole aim and object were that Great Britain should maintain such a Race Ball was held on Thursday standard of strength as to enable her to night, in order suitably to wind up this hold her position and to carry on her com merce in security throughout the world. It would be easy to point out much good and Hongs closed each day as usual at I work done by the Navy League, but, for the sake of brevity, mention would be made of only one small but very important example in which it seemed that the Navy | racecourse. League had done most excellent work. In the Navy some two years or so ago there were on the ist kept by the Admiralty at home some 23 ships of an obsolute type, armed with muzzle-loading guns, and the Navy League and perfectly rightly, that there ships were little better than death-traps. For over two years past, the League had worked continuously at that question, and only a mouth or two ago was able to announce that every one of these dangerous and inefficient ships had been taken off the list, (Applicuse). That was a very important result indeed to have achieved, and there could be no doubt, juriging by the slowness. with which Governments move in the ordinary way, that that action of the Navy League, ably seconded as it was by the in the Shau-Wu Prefecture, which lies Press, had seen to a great extent instrumental in removing these obsolete ships from the Admiralty list. (Applause). Hongkong lately we had been considering and pondering over the so-called building collapses, and, as had been pointed out, it was a matter for serious enquiry that thin powers to build a railway from Amoy some 30 or 40 people had lost their lives through the collapse of buildings. But what a number of lives would have been at atake if those 23 ships had remained on the Government list; it would not have been a question of 40 or 50 lives at stake. but one hundred times that amount, or more. In such matters as these it was necessary that the Government should be kept up to the mark, for it did not in the least follow that because certain people were paid for doing certain work that that work would be performed efficiently. These views had the support of no less an authority than our late Premier, Lord Salisbury, than whom there was no other statesman of recent times more guarded and cautious in the use of his words When the Conservative Administration was being attacked upon the inefficiency of the preparations in connection with the South African War, Lord Salisbury said that the

upon the Gövernment, and added the very important remark that the defence of the Empire was part of the business of the people. Such was the position that the Navy for produce. League had been maintaining all along. terainly the Government desired to do its best in the matter, but the Navy League recognised that in order to maintain our naval position in the world large sums of money would have to be expended, and when people realised that the national safety in one way depended on the Navy. they would then see that the Government provided efficient and sufficient ships, and would willingly bear the taxation which was immised upon them to provide efficient and sufficient ships. The whole task of the Navy League - has been ducate the people so that they might be induced to bring pressure to bear up a the Government, Lord Salisbury said, and justly, that the national -ferice was the business of the people. and the object of the Navy League was to make the people remise that it was absolutely import at for the welfare of the British Empire that we should possess a predominantly strong Navy. (Applause.) Concluding, Mr Pollock said it was very lesirable that those of the British community in the Colony not associated with the Navy League should at once become members or associates of it. There was absolutely no entrance fee, and for members the subscription was only $5 a year, the Taotal and Admiral, and there was and for associates $2. Nobody therefore could say it was an expensive matter to join the Navy Lesgue, and that they could not College. afford to doit. In moving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts. added that members and associates would very much facilitate the work of the Hon. Theusmer if they would kindly send in their substriptions, without putting him to the trouble of sending out specially to collect subscript in ... (Hear, hear.)

y Mr A. R. Lowe, and agreed to. The Chairman then spake in praise of the usoful purpose served by the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, Arsenal Street, and moved that $100 be voted in aid of the Home

The adoption of the report was seconded

This was also approved. The re-election of Mr Pollock as chairman was proposed by Mr Gorsham Stewart, who said that for years past Mr Pollock had been most untiring in his efforts for the furtherance of the work of the Navy League. He had thrown his whole heart into the work, and so well had his energy been appreciated that they had elected him as their Chairman when he was ten thou-

AMOY NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Amoy, January 10. WISTRY WEATHER.

As usual with the turn of the year, th weather has got much colder, and fires are a necessity and a pleasure. The North-Pasters do not last long, but there is more nip' in the air and a more bracing atmoswhere. It is quite a treat to be able to walk with comfort, and without returning they took their prizes from a lady, home wet through with perspiration, have such a long relaxing summer that a cold winter, especially if it is dry, is a

MINING PROJECTS.

The yest stores of mineral wealth locked up for centuries in this Fukien Province are not likely to remain for ever untouched, if the various plans for extracting them come to anything. Dame Rumour is busy with suggestions of several schemes, and one can only hope that all these my eventually materialise, and prove a profit both to their promotors and to the Chinese. It is stated on good authority that the have applied for and oba unining concession for gold Fouchow on the border of Kiang Si, and that other nations are also trying to obtain similar concessions: The Japanese are said to be seeking to obto Foochow, and thence on towards Hankow. Then, again, in the South of the province, inland from Amoy, where good coalfields are known to exist, as well as any amount of iron, some enterprising Britishers have been spying out the land, and the talk now is of a railway from the Haimun, near Amoy, light up to these coalfolds, passing the big city of Chang Chew on its way, and covering a distance, probably, of over 100 miles in all. If this comes to fruition, it will be an immense boon, and will open up a populous tract of country where the traffic, both by boat and by road, is enormous. In addition to vast acres of rice fields, a great deal of sugarcane is grown, while all kinds of fruits. oranges, pumeious, pineapples, Dragons' bananas, &c., afford a good market | The 'Kowshing Indemnity.

CONSULAR CHANGES. Everything gets into the Landon Times. but one was surprised to see in the number for December 6 a statement to the effect that ' the King has been graciously pleased to appoint Pierre Friderick Hausser, Esq., to be His Majesty's Consul at Swatow.' No rumours have reached us of quite reasonable, as he has not been one year in Amoy. Too rapid changes are not always helpful.

THE AMOY ANGLO-CHINESE COLLEGE. The closing exercises of this popular institution were held this afternoon, and were a great success. Numbers of the Amoy Community were invited, as well as large attendance of those interested in the

The proceedings opened at three o'clock, though the Amoy Taotai with his numerous ratinge, and the other Mandarins who accompanied him, were in the school buildings an hour earlier, carefully inspecting the class-rooms, and praising the roominess and cleanliness of everything. An exhibition of the work of the students was on view in an upper classr-oom, consisting of maps, drawings, penmanship, typewriting, shorthand, compositions in English and Chinesel; and many of the exhibits (won unstinted praise. A substantial tea was provided for the many visitors, after a 'squad' of the older boys had gone through a capital display of drill in English fashion and some sword-stick exercise. Much credit is due to the Assistant Master, Mr Graham Cumming, for his careful training This motion was cordially seconded and of the boys, and to the boys also for the neatness and precision of the display. At four o'clock, a move was made to the Lecture Hall for the distribution of the prizes. &c. After the students had sung in harmony, the Hymn, 'Onward, Christian Rankin, gave his Report for the year, and Beware of worthless imitations and substitutes. Tara's halls,' had been sung by one of the students, and a short speech in English on 'Character' from the Rev. E. P. Joseland the 'March of the Mea of Harlech' was sung by the students. Then came the piece de resistence,' the distribution of the prizes, including those won by the boys at the Sports held the day before. Miss Lonox Simpson; daughter of our genial Commissioner of Customs, performed this duty with grace, and it was a treat to watch the shy faces of the successful students as

The exercises concluded with the singing of the Hymn, 'Abide with me,' and the Benediction. Before the stucents separated, however, their certificates were given to them, showing their progress during the term, and their success in the examinations. It was pleasant to see so many of the Amoy Community present, and to know that their interest in the College is so manifest and real. Both students and teachers alike were especially glad to welcome the Amoy Taotal and his coll eagues, and I must not forget to mention of valuable prizes, which the boys will get Altogether, the Headmaster and his fellow-workers are to be congratulated up. on the success of this, the first, public breaking-up party, as well as for progress of the school and the good work it is doing in Amoy. The number of students on the roll during the year is 130, at each Range. though the actual number presenting the a solves for examination at the end of the Term was about 95. It is fully expected that the opening of next Session will show a marked increase.
